Menulis bibliografi ibarat melukis sebuah peta keilmuan, agar seorang sarjana paham dimana novelti riset yang akan dikajinya. Entah sejak kapan tradisi ini “hilang” dari dunia akademik di Indonesia; satu hal yang pasti Mely G. Tan dalam Metode-Metode Penelitian Masyarakat (1977) masih merekam beberapa bibliografi tentang Indonesia yang masih terbit di awal tahun 70-an. Di era serba digital ini, bibliografi telah tergantikan dengan kemunculan database elektronik yang memiliki fitur “pencarian” cepat, seperti Proquest, Ebsco atau Springer. Tidak seperti dulu yang mengharuskan seorang peneliti mengumpulkan data referensi secara manual, kini dengan berbagai citation manager software yang ada (EndNote, Mendeley, Zotero, RefWorks dan lain sebagainya), seorang peneliti dapat menyimpan-dan-memanggil kembali referensi secara cepat dan otomatis. Namun, fasilitas tersebut bukannya tanpa kelemahan. Daya jangkau akses peneliti masih berperan dalam proses penjaringan data referensi. Untuk itulah, usaha ini merupakan sebuah ikhtiar menghidupkan tradisi menulis bibliografi, dengan batas-kajian pada studi Islam Indonesia.

Bibliografi Islam di Indonesia karya B.J. Bolland dan I. Farjon, Islam in Indonesia: a Bibliographical Survey (1983), agaknya belum, bahkan tidak, akan tergantikan. Akibat ketelatenan mereka, bibliografi ini mampu menyajikan sekitar 1100 judul, baik artikel, disertasi atau buku, tentang Islam di Indonesia merentang dari tahun 1600-1942, dengan sedikit tambahan publikasi yang terbit di era 1945. Secara bersambung, kolom ini berambisi melanjutkan bibliografi Bolland dan Farjon tersebut. Karena keterbatasan, hanya jenis disertasi/tesis yang dipilih untuk proses pembangunan bibliografi ini. Disertasi dinilai otoritatif dalam merepresentasikan sebuah isu riset. Disertasi tersebut dicari dari beberapa database disertasi, seperti Australian Theses Database, Proquest (Amerika dan Kanada), dan database disertasi dari Belanda dan Inggris. Beberapa disertasi yang ditampilkan di sini berbentuk versi publikasi, karena keterbatasan daya jangkau data.
